District Responds to Coronavirus Pandemic

The impact of Coronavirus continues to evolve rapidly around the world, and as leaders in Hollywood, we feel responsible for the wellbeing of all of our stakeholders, partners and our employees. We want you to know that your health is a top priority for us. Given that the spread of the virus has escalated rapidly, we feel strongly about doing our part to help flatten the curve and prevent this from spreading in our neighborhood and surrounding communities.

Our safe and clean teams will expand their focus to include wiping down and sterilizing frequently touched hardware in the public realm such as crosswalk signals, trash cans, and door handles. They are checking in with those essential businesses that remain open. Most of our office staff has transitioned into remote work capacities.

We will be taking all of the normal precautions (and more), to help prevent the spreading of germs throughout the district with our Clean & Safe Team operations. We know you also value the health of others and ask that you please take the CDC’s recommended precautions if you suspect you might be coming down with even the faintest of colds.

We encourage you to sign up for NotifyLA, our City’s emergency alerts system, which is pushing out updates about COVID-19 prevention. Please encourage your family and friends to do the same.

Our team has shifted focus to address the new reality that we are all facing together as we practice social distancing and self-isolation. While the streets are emptier than usual, we are still sanitizing surfaces and are also performing deep cleaning that would not otherwise be possible. (Photo by HPOA staff)

Why Does This Newsletter Look Different?

You most likely noticed that this issue of the Only in Hollywood newsletter looks a little different. There are two reasons for that. Let us explain...

First, in response to the Coronavirus pandemic, we are cognizant of the rapidly-changing news and information that we are all exposed to on a daily basis. This issue has been pared down to bring you only the most relevant updates from the District, and to reduce unnecessary printing costs.

Secondly, and on a brighter note, our organization is currently undertaking a rebranding process. After the renewal of the District in 2018, and the merger of the Sunset & Vine BID into the Hollywood Entertainment District BID, the strategic plan recommended developing “a new organizational brand that is reflective of the organization’s strategic plan and direction.”

To that end, the Stakeholder Engagement Committee (also known as Goal 3) issued a request for proposals to branding firms across the county. Eleven firms responded, and the committee ultimately selected Streetsense, an experience focused, multidisciplinary design and strategy firm specializing in retail, restaurant, hospitality, and real estate solutions. The firm has offices in locations nationwide, including Culver City.

The Stakeholder Engagement Committee has been working with staff and Streetsense to develop the new brand, which will include a new name for the organization, a new logo, and brand guidelines. The rollout of the new brand will begin later this month, so watch for updates soon!

Coronavirus FAQ

On March 19, 2020, Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti issued a “Safer at Home” emergency order, calling on residents to stay in their homes and limit all activities outside of their homes beyond what is absolutely necessary for essential tasks. This followed the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health’s Health Officer Order which was issued on March 16 and prohibited group events and gatherings and mandated social distancing measures, as well as the closure of non-essential businesses.

On a federal level, the White House recently updated their Coronavirus Guidelines, urging Americans to stay home and practice good hygiene. The guidelines have now been extended through the end of April.

The latest information, and links to resources, can be found on our website at onlyinhollywood.org. This includes resources for businesses affected by the crisis, as well as a list of businesses currently operating in Hollywood, and tips on how you can support our neighborhood during this time.

As far as how our organization is operating at this time, the HPOA Board’s Executive Committee (EC) is now meeting virtually on a weekly basis to review reports on what is happening in Hollywood and to provide direction to staff on moving forward with our various initiatives.

With regards to Board & Committee meetings in the month of April, changes to the Brown Act have now enabled us to convene meetings virtually. At its meeting on April 2, the EC recommended to hold some meetings via Zoom, beginning on April 8th with the TDOZ. We have certain time-sensitive approvals that are required via our contract with the City pertaining to the submittal of our Financial Review and any adjustment to the assessment rate. Out of respect to the circumstances of our members, it remains to be undetermined if committees & the Board will consider any non-essential items at this time or simply defer their consideration until after the Safer-at-Home order has been lifted.

President’s Message

Without a doubt, this newsletter finds the Hollywood community facing extraordinary times. Writing on the first of April 2020, our neighborhood is calm, quiet, and in many cases — closed for business. The stars on the Walk of Fame, usually teeming with commerce and life, patiently anticipate our return and yearn to tell their stories once more. Many of you — some, more than others — are grappling with the uncertainty that lies ahead, and what it means to your business, building, and livelihood. Indeed, we all anxiously await the return to something that feels more normal.

Weeks ago, when the reality of the outbreak first hit the Los Angeles community, we saw an opportunity to pivot from our core duties to do what we can to limit the spread of the virus. Immediately, both our Clean Team and BID Patrol began regularly sterilizing high-touch surfaces such as crosswalk signals, ATMs, trash receptacles, and door handles. On our website, www.onlyinhollywood.org, we compiled an online database of every public-facing essential business still operating in the district, are updating it daily, and promoting it via social media. To protect our community, we have maximized the visibility and responsiveness of our security team to provide reassurance to the stakeholders within the district. And to assist those businesses affected by this economic crisis, we’re currently building a partnership with Hollywood Chamber to help businesses navigate the resources and tools intended to help them survive and rebound. We’ve rebounded before — many times, in fact. Whether it was after industry shifts, civil unrest or geologic events — Hollywood has always rebounded from challenges. As I write this — the streets and sidewalks are generally litter free and crime in the district has dropped precipitously. Partnerships and coalitions are coming together to address the needs of the most vulnerable. Periods of challenge have a way of uniting our community and remind us of the profound privilege we share to live and work in a place that shapes the imaginations of men and women across the globe. I invite you all to find a way to reach out and help a neighbor, tenant, local business or someone in need during the weeks or months ahead. Though the virus may be invisible, your care and generosity will be witnessed and will inspire harmonious actions by others.

Vendor Employees of the Month

Congratulations to our vendor employees of the month! Star Polisher Adhnuar J. Brito was selected as the CleanStreet Employee of the month. Pictured above is Joaquin Jimenez, maintenance supervisor with CleanStreet, Brito, and Ruben Lechuga, HPOA Vice President for Urban Place Management. Below is Lechuga with Patrol Officer Luis Berrio, who was selected as the AGS Employee of the month, and Zack Shamoyan, Assistant Director of BID Security with AGS. Walk the Walk of Fame

With the closing of L.A.’s beloved parks and hiking trails, including Hollywood’s Runyon Canyon and Griffith Park, it’s getting more challenging to find ways to get out and active safely under the “Safer at Home” order. But the current climate also creates a unique opportunity for Hollywood locals to do something they may have never done before… walk the entire Hollywood Walk of Fame!

The Walk of Fame runs 1.3 miles east to west on Hollywood Boulevard from Gower Street to La Brea Avenue, plus a short segment of Marshfield Way that runs diagonally between Hollywood and La Brea; and 0.4 miles north to south on Vine Street between Yucca Street and Sunset Boulevard. That’s 3.4 miles total if you do the whole loop. It’s great exercise, and a perfect time to see the 2,690 stars embedded in the terrazzo. The area is clearer than ever before and it’s realistic to keep the 6 feet of distance required between others.

In addition to jogging or walking for exercise, it can be fun to look for your favorite stars. Stars are awarded in five categories: Live Theater (denoted by the twin comedy/tragedy masks), Motion Pictures (denoted by a camera), Radio (denoted by a microphone), Recording (denoted by a record), and Television (denoted by a TV set) and it is possible to get recognized in more than one category, so some celebrities have more than one star. Gene Autry has a star in each category! Bonus points if you can find all five!

New Waste Receptacles Installed

At the end of March, 2020, our teams installed 27 new waste receptacles throughout the District. The receptacles were ordered by the Place Enhancement committee and the TDOZ (Tourism District Overlay Zone) steering committee. This brings the total number of receptacles maintained by the District to 288, with an average of over 2 tons of trash being removed by our teams on a daily basis.

Homeless Crisis Exacerbated by COVID Concerns

With homelessness already at crisis levels in Los Angeles, the Coronavirus pandemic has added a new sense of urgency to housing those who are living on the streets. As part of the Mayor and LAHSA’s initiative to open 6,000 emergency beds in response to the pandemic, the Hollywood Recreation Center has been converted to a shelter. Located just blocks outside of the District, the facility now provides 29 socially-distanced beds plus three meals per day (from LAUSD) to protect individuals experiencing homelessness from the virus. The facility has already reached capacity, and is in need of donations of new supplies (more info below).

Additionally, Kerry Morrison, former HPOA Executive Director, has reconvened the Hollywood4WRD Coalition on a weekly call to address needs and concerns of service providers in Hollywood. A new website has been established to share these needs at hollywood4wrd.live.

5 Ways To Support Hollywood Now

Looking for ways to help your favorite local Hollywood businesses right now? We’ve got five ways to support the business community while staying safer at home!

1. Place orders online or over the phone. Many of Hollywood’s retailers have online ordering available, and independent shops can help you get what you need via phone, Instagram, their websites, etc.

2. If you don’t have anything specific in mind but want to support local retail, purchase gift cards for gifts or for yourself to spend later.

3. For restaurants, tip for your takeout or delivery orders the same amount that you would if you were dining in.

4. Buy gift cards from you favorite local restaurants and give them to those who are in financial need right now. You could make someone’s day!

5. Share this information! Post about your favorite local businesses and tag your friends so they can join in too.

Together, we can keep our neighborhood intact by supporting the businesses that make Hollywood a special and unique place to live, work, and play!
HPOA Staff Leads Development Tour

On February 27, 2020, four members of the media joined us for a tour of five new developments around the district. The purpose of the tour was to introduce our new research capacity such that the media will look to the HPOA as a trusted resource for information about what’s happening within the district.

At each location, HPOA staff provided context about the aggregate amount of each property type being developed within the district, while the property owner / manager was onsite to provide a guided tour. A Starline bus was used to transport the group.

The locations represented office, retail, residential, theatre, and hotel projects. They included Kilroy’s Netflix on Vine; the Godfrey Hotel Hollywood; Wallace on Sunset and the Earl Carroll Theatre; 1641-1651 Cahuenga; and Amoeba Music’s new home at El Centro Apartments.

There was a great recap of the tour in the Beverly Press, which can be found on our “Hollywood in the News” page on our website. Cassie Hoeprich, research manager for the HPOA, compiled information about all the projects, which was made available to the attendees. In addition, the recently released Value of Downtowns project, done in concert with the International Downtown Association, was distributed (it can be downloaded from our website). Hoeprich is now working on the HPOA’s first quarterly report, which will be released later in April. It will highlight current and upcoming developments in Hollywood, market trends and statistics.
